

[e1] No one should have the possibility to pick up the morning-after pill over the counter at the pharmacy.

[e2] Though there'd be the advantage of forgoing the embarrassment of a visit to the doctor or a nighttime trip to the walk-in clinic,

[e3] women should still be informed about the risks

[e4] and have a gynaecological examination before taking it.

[e5] Furthermore there's the risk that women could use the over-the-counter morning-after pill as a substitute for contraception.
